Greetings from Co-Chairs

Welcome to the Summer 2012 Issue of the International Section's Newsletter!

We are excited about the upcoming APA convention in Orlando, Florida, and about the different activities the International Section will host there. For example, we will host the International Scholars' Welcoming and Orientation Breakfast together with Division 52 International Psychology. We have invited many international and U.S. scholars to this event and among these are presidents of psychology associations from 22 different countries. During the breakfast, the awardees of the Life-time Achievement Award (Dr. Larry Gerstein, Ball State University and Dr. Anthony Joseph Marsella, University of Hawaii) and Graduate Student Award (Hung Chiao, University of Missouri-Columbia) will be honored.

On August 3th, we welcome you to visit the symposium/roundtable Globalization Counseling Psychology: Special Task Group Report from 23 Countries, which is the result of Division 17’s President Dr. Barry Chung’s year-long presidential initiative (Globalization Special Task Group), conducted together with the International Section. Our other APA activities are listed in this Newsletter, and we welcome you to these events.

We held an election this spring, and Jinhee Kang, PhD, University of Maryland-Baltimore County is our incoming treasurer, and Chi-Ping Deng, PhD, National Changsha University of Education, Taiwan, is the new incoming non-U.S. membership officer. We welcome them the executive board!

Finally, this is our last newsletter as co-chairs for the International Section. It has been our honor to serve the Section and a true privilege to work with so many dedicated and inspiring individuals and members for the last two years. Thank you for a great experience!

We hope to see you at APA! Safe travels!

Warm Regards,

Johanna Nilsson and Li-fei Wang

INSIDE THIS ISSUE:
Getting to know International Board Members and a Guide to APA Orlando 2012 Events and Presentations
Note from the Editors

In this newsletter, we look ahead to the 2012 American Psychological Association Conference in Orlando, Florida. We hope the newsletter can serve as a guide for you to all the exciting scholarly and social activities offered by our dynamic section and its members. As part of our efforts to foster greater connection within our section, we present in this issue introductions to our board and committee members with pictures and brief biographies. Please feel free to say hello if you see their familiar faces at APA! We also included a comprehensive list of APA events and presentations of our global community. Apologies in advance if we missed anyone’s presentations. We hope to see you in Orlando. Have a wonderful summer.

Best Regards,

Lillian Chiang and Yi-Jiun Lin

Call for Membership: International Counseling Psychologists, Scholars and Students

The Society of Counseling Psychology - Division 17 is deeply committed to expanding the boundaries of international dialogue and collaboration within the discipline of Counseling Psychology. As such the membership committee is actively seeking to increase international membership within the division. To this end, the membership committee is inviting members of the International Section to disseminate information on divisional membership and actively encourage your international colleagues to consider joining the Society. Additional information on the joining the Division can be found at www.div17.org/about_membership.html

Please also visit the International Section website, www.internationalcounselingpsychology.org, for information about membership. We look forward to you and your colleagues joining us and to continue building our global community.
Meet the Board and Committee Members

Johanna Nilsson, Co-Chair

I grew up with my older sister and parents in suburb to Stockholm, Sweden. After high school, I spent a couple of years travelling, which is quite common among Swedish youth. I spent about 8 months working on a kibbutz in Israel and loved it. I also travelled in United States and worked for a while as a nanny in Palm Springs, CA. During this time I received a scholarship to study journalism in the United States. I had planned to stay for one year, but clearly my plans changed. In my last year of my bachelor degree, I took some psychology courses and became fascinated by the subject. This interest brought me to West Georgia College, which psychology department had a focus on phenomenology and existentialism. I received both a master’s degree in psychology and education specialist degree in counseling from that school. Then I decided to return home, but found out that very few of my credits would be accepted and I was instead recommended to return to the United States and obtain a doctoral degree. I was accepted into the counseling psychology program at Western Michigan University, and felt I found my academic home. There I also met my partner, Brian. After graduation, I accepted a job as an assistant professor in the Division of Counseling and Educational Psychology Division at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. I have focused my research and clinical work on refugee and immigrant issues and experiences. We moved to Kansas City with the thought of staying a few years. We are still here and are enjoying our lives with our 11-year old twins. I miss Sweden, still feel very Swedish, and hope to return to there one day, meanwhile we try to visit as often we can via vacations and sabbaticals.

Li-fei Wang, Co-Chair

Li-fei Wang is a professor of counseling psychology at National Taiwan Normal University, Taiwan, R.O.C.. She received her Ph.D. in counseling psychology from the University of Missouri-Columbia in 1995. She devotes herself to the internationalization of counseling psychology and has served as the co-chair of Globalization of Counseling Psychology Special Task Group(GSTG)and the EB members of the International Section (such as co-chair and secretary) since 2007. She was not only passionate about bringing the world to Taiwan, but also extended her inspirations and worked to collaborate with her former advisor Dr. Puncky Heppner to create several exchange programs for benefiting both NTNU and MU students in expanding their worldviews and building stronger connections between her professional homes.
Meet the Board and Committee Members

Lillian Chiang, Co-Secretary and Co-Editor

Lillian is a staff psychologist at Counseling and Psychological Services of University of California, Berkeley. She was born in Hong Kong and speaks Cantonese and Mandarin. She provides individual, couples, and group counseling to students and is active in outreaching to the Asian Pacific American and international student communities. Lillian received her Masters and Doctorate in Counseling Psychology from Teachers College, Columbia University. Her areas of interest include anxiety, depression, cultural adjustment, bicultural and multicultural identity development, well-being of immigrants and international students, Asian Pacific American mental health, multicultural competence, and addressing stigma attached to the utilization of mental health services. She is also interested in group theory and therapy. When away from work, Lillian enjoys eating, popular culture, catching up with friends and family, traveling, and learning about different cultures of the world.

Yi-Jiun Lin, Co-Secretary and Co-Editor

Yi-Jiun Lin is currently a staff psychologist at the Counseling Center of University of Maryland-College Park. She was born in Taiwan and came to the U.S. for her graduate training in counseling. Yi-Jiun obtained her bachelor’s degree in Educational Psychology and Guidance at the National Taiwan Normal University and her master’s and doctorate in Counseling Psychology from University of Missouri-Columbia. She also did her one-internship at The Ohio State University counseling center. Therefore, she often jokes about being a nearly pure breed of the MOMM system (Missouri, Ohio, and now Maryland). She has a natural passion in working with international students in the U.S. through research, outreach programming, and direct services. In the past three years, she also has been regularly meeting with three other international psychologists in the East Coast in expanding her research interest in the training and supervision of the international trainees in the Counseling/Clinical Psychology programs in the U.S. Yi-Jiun now serves as the co-secretary for the International Section of Society of Counseling Psychology of the American Psychological Association as well as the co-editor for the Section newsletter; and she is excited about her new roles and involvement with the Section.
Meet the Board and Committee Members

Kenneth Wang, Treasurer

Kenneth Wang is an assistant professor in Counseling Psychology at University of Missouri-Columbia. He received his Ph.D. from Penn State University and M.A. from Wheaton College. Before starting his academic career, he was a staff psychologist at the University of Illinois counseling center. Kenneth is originally from Taiwan and worked as a counselor at National Dong-Hwa University between his master’s and doctoral training. Due to his cross-cultural experience, he is passionate about research on Asian populations and international students. He was involved in Chinese Indigenous Psychology research with Dr. Kuo-Shu Yang in Taiwan before his doctoral studies. Kenneth’s current research interests are in the areas of Perfectionism, International Student Adjustment, Asian and Asian American populations. He is very interested in the globalization of counseling psychology and hopes to develop international collaborations.

Majeda Humeidan, Membership Co-Officer

Majeda Humeidan has been the Supervisor of Student Affairs in a college in the United Arab Emirates for the past 6 years. She leads the counseling services, health and wellness services, student life, and career services. She also provides counseling while supervising clinical services with a focus on trauma, identity, and women's issues. Her current research focus is on career development and adjustment issues with first-generation college students. Prior to moving to the UAE, Majeda had work experience, post-doctorate, and internship training at various College counseling centers in the United States. She earned her doctorate in Counseling Psychology from Ball State University.
Meet the Board and Committee Members

Stefania Ægisdóttir, Membership Co-Officer,

Stefanía Ægisdóttir is a native of Iceland. She is currently an associate professor at the Department of Counseling Psychology and Guidance Services. She received her Bachelors degree in psychology from University of Iceland in 1990, A professional teachers' license from the University of Iceland in 1991, her Masters degree in community counseling in 1995 from Ball State University, and Ph.D. degree in counseling psychology in 2000 from Ball State University. She received the distinguished dissertation award from Ball State University for her dissertation on Icelandic and U.S. Students' Expectations about Counseling. From 1999 to 2002 Stef worked as a pre- and post-doctoral psychology intern at the Delaware County Juvenile Detention Center. She joined the Ball State faculty in 2002. Her research focus and interest is on psychological help seeking expectations, attitudes and behavior and international research validity. She is a co-editor of the International handbook of cross-cultural counseling: Cultural assumptions and practices worldwide and the Essentials of Cross-cultural Counseling.

 Hung Chiao, Student Representative

Hung Chiao, the student representative of the International Section, is a counseling psychology doctoral student from University of Missouri (Go Tigers!). She is currently completing her internship at University of Maryland Counseling Center. Hopefully by the time you read this bio, she already completed her dissertation, Cross-cultural coping in a Taiwanese cultural context: A qualitative study of Filipina immigrants’ utilization of coping strategies within a cross-cultural transition. She received her master’s degree from UT-Austin (Hook ‘em Horns) and bachelor’s degree from National Taiwan Normal University. She is generally interested in multiculturalism and cross-cultural psychology, LGBTQ issues, and career counseling. When she gets time for herself, she enjoys spending time with her partner, her family in Taiwan, her friends, and herself. She also does planting, volunteer work, international travels, or cooking to feed her soul.
Meet the Board and Committee Members

Ashley Hutchinson, Student Representative

I am a 3rd year Ph.D. student in Counseling Psychology at Ball State University, located in Muncie, IN. My clinical interests include working with international students and survivors of sexual assault. My research interests focus broadly on international psychology in a counseling psychology context, and more specifically on how non-Western individuals experience and express emotion. My doctoral dissertation work is in the area of counseling trainees’ ability to accurately identify facial expressions of emotions from a range of cultures. When not working, I enjoy any type of outdoor activities, especially if they involve my two dogs Dexter and Maggie. I am going on internship next year at the University of Utah, and am excited for the next chapter in my doctoral degree!

Maiko Kasai, Co-Chair Elect

Professor of Naruto University of Education

Research interest: Counselor training and sexual and cultural minorities

Clinical interest: Self psychology and School counseling

Personal hobby: Kosu-pure(Costume Play), Marathon, Music, Movie, many more…
Meet the Board and Committee Members

Chiachih DC Wang, Co-Chair Elect

My name is Chiachih DC Wang and I am honored to be the U.S.-based Co-Chair Elect of our section. I grew up in Taiwan, came to the states for my graduate studies 15 years ago, received my doctoral degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia in 2004, and am now an associate professor in the Counseling Psychology Program at the University of North Texas in the U.S. Being an international student and now an immigrant psychologist and researcher in the U.S., cross-cultural issues and international dimensions of our profession as related to training, research, and counseling practice are always in my mind. My research focuses on three areas: cross-cultural variation of attachment behaviors and constructs, acculturation and adjustment of immigrant populations, and influences of familial factors on people’s psychosocial functioning. I was serving as the section’s Secretary for 2 years through which I got to know and became good friends with many colleagues across the U.S. and in different countries. I strongly believe in the importance of enhancing the collaboration and connection between our counseling psychology society and relevant professional individuals/groups around the globe. Built upon our current accomplishment, it is my goal to continue promoting and strengthening our section’s functions by providing opportunities for students, faculty, researchers, and practitioners from different parts of the world to interact and learn from each other.

Committees

Jinhee Kang, Practice Committee and Treasurer Elect

Dr. Kang graduated from Yonsei University in Seoul, Korea. She earned her doctorate from University of Missouri-Columbia in counseling psychology. She did her pre-doctoral internship at University of Missouri-Kansas City Counseling Center. She has worked at Virginia Commonwealth University over 10 years as a staff psychologist before she joined the University Counseling Services at UMBC. She is also the Multicultural Services Coordinator at UMBC. Dr. Kang’s theoretical orientation is integrative, informed primarily by Object Relations Therapy and interpersonal Therapy with a Multicultural/Feminist perspective. Her special interests include Diversity/Cross-Cultural Concerns, Complex Trauma, Supervision/Training and Group Therapy.
Meet the Board and Committee Members

Jean Tzou, International Mentoring and Orientation Committee

Jean Tzou, PhD., is assistant director and clinical supervisor of the Student Health and Wellness Center at the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago. Dr. Tzou earned her doctorate in Counseling Psychology from the University of Kentucky: a program recognized for its emphasis on feminist therapy and multicultural counseling. An active advocate for women, Dr. Tzou’s research focuses on women’s role and experience in family and intimate relationships within the Asian cultural context; Dr. Tzou has developed an Asian Intimate Partner Abuse Scale for assessing societal attitude and perception of intimate partner abuse. Her recent research focus has been on developing a psychotherapy theory and interventions for helping Chinese women surviving marital crisis. In addition to teaching at the Illinois Professional School of Psychology as an adjunct professor, Dr. Tzou considers herself primarily a clinician and enjoys working with clients presenting with an array of mental health concerns at her successful private practice in the heart of Chicago. Certified as a trauma therapist, Dr. Tzou approaches trauma work with an integrated model that incorporates cognitive processing changes and the feminist empowerment framework. Dr. Tzou’s other areas of clinical strength include suicide risk assessment, crisis management, substance abuse/addiction, diagnosis, and assessment. Dr. Tzou is also an active member of the American Psychological Association and has served as the chair of the International Mentoring and Orientation Committee within the International Section of Division of Counseling Psychology.

Dr. Chun-Chung Choi at University of Florida is the new Chair of the International Mentoring and Orientation Committee. Welcome, Dr. Choi.

Overview:
This roundtable presentation is the result of Division 17’s President Barry Chung’s presidential initiative—a year long effort with a focus on the impact of globalization on education, research, practice, and advocacy as it is related to counseling psychology around the world. About 68 professionals from 22 countries volunteered to participate in the task group. Due to the large number of participants, they were divided into 12 workgroups, consisting of 4-8 participants per group and each group representing several different countries. Each of these groups came up with their own project for the year and it is the result of this work that will be presented at this roundtable session.

We would like to invite students and professionals to submit articles and announcements for the next issue of our newsletter. The deadline for submitting your manuscripts and announcements is October 15th, 2012.

Information on submission
Topics may include:

(1) Manuscripts on international issues related to research, teaching, training, or practice in Counseling Psychology.

(2) Announcements - Sharing of pertinent information or activities relevant to International Section members (e.g., upcoming events, international conferences, member news/achievements, relevant grant deadlines, position announcements, opportunities to collaborate, volunteer opportunities).

(3) Brief reports (300 words or less) for the column, “Counseling Developments Worldwide.”

(4) Suggestions - Recommendations for content and issues that you would like the Newsletter to include.

Submission Guidelines
Manuscripts:
Articles should be written using 12-point, Times New Roman font according to the style of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (6th Ed.). A brief abstract (50 words or less) of the article should be included with each manuscript submission.

Personal information should not be included on the title page to ensure an unbiased review. Articles should be submitted electronically as file attachments using Microsoft Word. Please include a statement that the manuscript has not been submitted for publication or published elsewhere.

Announcements:
Announcements should be no longer than 100 words. Below are reminders to include pertinent information for various types of announcements.

1) Conferences/upcoming events - date, place, theme, registration, links

2) Relevant grants - deadlines, proposal guidelines, eligibility

3) Member news/achievements - dates, awards, awarding agency

4) Position announcements - type of position, eligibility, application deadline, contact information.

Please email your manuscript submissions by October 15, 2012 to Yi-Jiun Lin (ylin1234@umd.edu), Ph.D., Co-Editor, Newsletter: International Section of Counseling Psychology.
